

WALKED UPON THEIR BLOODY WORK.

An Unsuspected Witness Takes the Stand in the Lator Murder Case.

Mrs. Heuter Says Her Early Call
Interrupted the Butchery of William.

WAS STRUCK, BUT NOT MUTILATED.

Nearly Paralyzed with Fear, She Left the House Without Giving an Alarm.

The Misfortunes of the Lator Family.

William Lator was found murdered and shockingly mutilated on the morning of January 2 last at his home, No. 400 Jackson avenue, Long Island City. His mother, Mary Lator, gave the first alarm. Several days afterward she was arrested and accused of the crime. The son-in-law, Forstel, was subsequently arrested, together with John Fleischauer, who had lived with William Lator. Forstel was discharged from custody last week. Mrs. Lator and Fleischauer are still held.

Amid the hushed attention of a crowd which completely filled the stuffy courtroom of Justice of the Peace James Ingram, of Long Island City, Mrs. Sarah Heuter testified yesterday to facts which point very decidedly to the guilt of Mrs. Mary Lator and John Fleischauer, who are accused of the murder of Mrs. Lator's son William. Mrs. Heuter testified that she was in the house, No. 400 Jackson avenue, Long Island City, at the very time the murder was committed, and that she heard the man of the dying man.

This announcement fell like a bomb among the spectators, who craned their necks forward in a strained effort to catch every word.

"My little daughter Annie had died," Mrs. Heuter said, "and was to be buried on January 2 last in the Lutheran Cemetery. I wanted to request Mrs. Lator, who had often done me a similar favor before, to watch our little Johnnie and Betsy while my husband and I were away at the funeral."

"It was just about 8 o'clock when I got to the door of the Lator's home, which is only a couple of blocks from our home. I knocked several times, but there was no response. Then I tried the knob, and the door opened. I entered and walked to the end of the hall. I came to a door there, too. It was the kitchen door, but I knew that they had converted the kitchen into a bedroom. So I knocked there."

HEARD THE DOG SNAIL.

"I heard a sound like the barking of a small dog. But the bark was cut short, as if some one had taken the dog. By the instant and was strangled. A moment later I heard the same barking sound and recognized it as coming from a small black-and-tan that the Lators owned. I didn't exactly know what to make of the peculiar way the dog's barking was stopped. It made me feel a little uneasy. But while I was thinking about this I heard a sound, in the room beyond, which I thought was the sound of a door being opened. I saw quick movements as would be made by a person dressing in a hurry. After that I was still."

"I waited a minute or so longer and then knocked again. There was a hollow sound, and then I heard a door open. I was beginning to feel very much afraid. I knocked again and again, and finally turned the knob and opened the door."

On the bed, opposite the door lay William Lator. There was a cut in his forehead between the eyes. His upper lip was greatly swollen. Except for the small red streak on his forehead, there was no blood anywhere. His neck and breast were bare and his arms were lying across his breast.

"While I looked, almost frozen to the spot, I thought I heard a low moan uttered by William. I was too terrified to take note of anything else in the room, except that I observed that the shades of two of the windows were pulled down, while the shade of the window facing Jackson avenue had been torn from its fastenings, and the light came streaming in half way down between the window uppers."

DID NOT THINK OF MURDER.

"Somehow, I didn't quite realize at the time that William was dead. I thought that he was only dazed and that he had been put in that condition as a result of a New Year's row, or that he had tried to kill himself."

"It was lucky for me that it never even entered my mind that he might be dead. I didn't know what I should have done had that thought occurred to me. As it was, I closed the door gently, and walked out of the house, making as little noise as possible."

"When I got home I told my husband what I had seen. Afterward I told it also to Mrs. Stump, Mrs. Simms and Mrs. Duffy, who live at 400 Jackson avenue."

"When my husband got home from work that night, he told me that when he left the morning had seen Jimmie Lator, Mrs. Lator's sixteen-year-old son, running down Jackson avenue, away from his home. This was at about 8:45 a. m., as my husband had left the house shortly after my return from the Lator home. The boy had no coat on."

About a week after this Mrs. Jordan, one of Mrs. Lator's married daughters, called at our house with her unmarried sister, Lizzie. They had never visited us before, and I thought it strange that they should call then."

Naturally, we began talking about the murder, and Mrs. Jordan suddenly exclaimed:

"Oh, by the way, a Mrs. Kennedy told me that she had seen a woman come out of William's house on the morning of the murder. Mrs. Kennedy said that she knew the woman, but could not recall her name; that she lived in the house at No. 400 Jackson avenue, and that if she could be found it would help clear my mother and convict Fleischauer."

THE SISTER'S ANXIETY.

"The following day Mrs. Jordan called again and said:

"Why, you are the woman, Mrs. Heuter, whom Mrs. Kennedy saw."

"I then told Mrs. Jordan all that I had seen and heard, and also informed her of what my husband had told me about having seen Jimmie running coastless from his home."

"For God's sake," exclaimed Mrs. Jordan, "don't let your husband say that in court. We have all sworn at the coroner's inquest that Jimmie wasn't around the house at all at that time, and that he was down in Brooklyn."

The testimony of the other witnesses who were called yesterday on the stand showed that Mrs. Lator and Fleischauer had been seen to enter William's house before the time when Mrs. Heuter was accused, and that they had left it soon after.

From Mrs. Heuter's testimony concerning the absence of mutilations when she saw William it has been concluded that the work of mutilating the body was begun after Mrs. Heuter had left the house.

Of all those who were in the court room yesterday nobody seemed less concerned in the proceedings than Mrs. Lator, the accused. She enjoyed the occasional quips and jokes indulged in by the lawyers with as much zest as if she had been a spectator at a trial of minor importance.

WASHED HER FACE.

A Mrs. Frances Schottky had just testified that she saw Mrs. Lator leave William's house some time between 8 and 9 o'clock on the morning of January 2, and going to the residence of Fleischauer's house.

"I know it must have been near 8 o'clock," said Mrs. Schottky, "because I

Mrs. Heuter on the Stand.

This witness told for the first time yesterday that she had been in the old home-stead during the time that William Lator was being murdered. She said that when she saw him he had been attacked and injured, but not mutilated.

had looked at the clock and saw that it was 8 o'clock when I began washing my face, and just as I finished wiping my face I saw Mrs. Lator coming from the house."

"The question now is," said Lawyer Kaden, who represents Mrs. Lator, "how long does she ordinarily require to wash her face?"

Mrs. Lator laughed heartily at this, as did all the other members of her family. Their mirth seemed almost grotesque to the spectators, but this mirth, it was said by Court Clerk Hendrickson, may be the "comic" expression of the family's apprehension for the Lators have suffered very troubles intensely in many ways of late. Since the murder of William, one of the sons, a lad, Jordan, dropped dead in front of his house, and Mrs. Lator, who represents Mrs. Lator, "how long does she ordinarily require to wash her face?"

Mrs. Lator laughed heartily at this, as did all the other members of her family. Their mirth seemed almost grotesque to the spectators, but this mirth, it was said by Court Clerk Hendrickson, may be the "comic" expression of the family's apprehension for the Lators have suffered very troubles intensely in many ways of late. Since the murder of William, one of the sons, a lad, Jordan, dropped dead in front of his house, and Mrs. Lator, who represents Mrs. Lator, "how long does she ordinarily require to wash her face?"

Mrs. Lator laughed heartily at this, as did all the other members of her family. Their mirth seemed almost grotesque to the spectators, but this mirth, it was said by Court Clerk Hendrickson, may be the "comic" expression of the family's apprehension for the Lators have suffered very troubles intensely in many ways of late. Since the murder of William, one of the sons, a lad, Jordan, dropped dead in front of his house, and Mrs. Lator, who represents Mrs. Lator, "how long does she ordinarily require to wash her face?"

Mrs. Lator laughed heartily at this, as did all the other members of her family. Their mirth seemed almost grotesque to the spectators, but this mirth, it was said by Court Clerk Hendrickson, may be the "comic" expression of the family's apprehension for the Lators have suffered very troubles intensely in many ways of late. Since the murder of William, one of the sons, a lad, Jordan, dropped dead in front of his house, and Mrs. Lator, who represents Mrs. Lator, "how long does she ordinarily require to wash her face?"

Mrs. Lator laughed heartily at this, as did all the other members of her family. Their mirth seemed almost grotesque to the spectators, but this mirth, it was said by Court Clerk Hendrickson, may be the "comic" expression of the family's apprehension for the Lators have suffered very troubles intensely in many ways of late. Since the murder of William, one of the sons, a lad, Jordan, dropped dead in front of his house, and Mrs. Lator, who represents Mrs. Lator, "how long does she ordinarily require to wash her face?"

Mrs. Lator laughed heartily at this, as did all the other members of her family. Their mirth seemed almost grotesque to the spectators, but this mirth, it was said by Court Clerk Hendrickson, may be the "comic" expression of the family's apprehension for the Lators have suffered very troubles intensely in many ways of late. Since the murder of William, one of the sons, a lad, Jordan, dropped dead in front of his house, and Mrs. Lator, who represents Mrs. Lator, "how long does she ordinarily require to wash her face?"

Mrs. Lator laughed heartily at this, as did all the other members of her family. Their mirth seemed almost grotesque to the spectators, but this mirth, it was said by Court Clerk Hendrickson, may be the "comic" expression of the family's apprehension for the Lators have suffered very troubles intensely in many ways of late. Since the murder of William, one of the sons, a lad, Jordan, dropped dead in front of his house, and Mrs. Lator, who represents Mrs. Lator, "how long does she ordinarily require to wash her face?"

Mrs. Lator laughed heartily at this, as did all the other members of her family. Their mirth seemed almost grotesque to the spectators, but this mirth, it was said by Court Clerk Hendrickson, may be the "comic" expression of the family's apprehension for the Lators have suffered very troubles intensely in many ways of late. Since the murder of William, one of the sons, a lad, Jordan, dropped dead in front of his house, and Mrs. Lator, who represents Mrs. Lator, "how long does she ordinarily require to wash her face?"

Mrs. Lator laughed heartily at this, as did all the other members of her family. Their mirth seemed almost grotesque to the spectators, but this mirth, it was said by Court Clerk Hendrickson, may be the "comic" expression of the family's apprehension for the Lators have suffered very troubles intensely in many ways of late. Since the murder of William, one of the sons, a lad, Jordan, dropped dead in front of his house, and Mrs. Lator, who represents Mrs. Lator, "how long does she ordinarily require to wash her face?"

Mrs. Lator laughed heartily at this, as did all the other members of her family. Their mirth seemed almost grotesque to the spectators, but this mirth, it was said by Court Clerk Hendrickson, may be the "comic" expression of the family's apprehension for the Lators have suffered very troubles intensely in many ways of late. Since the murder of William, one of the sons, a lad, Jordan, dropped dead in front of his house, and Mrs. Lator, who represents Mrs. Lator, "how long does she ordinarily require to wash her face?"

Mrs. Lator laughed heartily at this, as did all the other members of her family. Their mirth seemed almost grotesque to the spectators, but this mirth, it was said by Court Clerk Hendrickson, may be the "comic" expression of the family's apprehension for the Lators have suffered very troubles intensely in many ways of late. Since the murder of William, one of the sons, a lad, Jordan, dropped dead in front of his house, and Mrs. Lator, who represents Mrs. Lator, "how long does she ordinarily require to wash her face?"

Mrs. Lator laughed heartily at this, as did all the other members of her family. Their mirth seemed almost grotesque to the spectators, but this mirth, it was said by Court Clerk Hendrickson, may be the "comic" expression of the family's apprehension for the Lators have suffered very troubles intensely in many ways of late. Since the murder of William, one of the sons, a lad, Jordan, dropped dead in front of his house, and Mrs. Lator, who represents Mrs. Lator, "how long does she ordinarily require to wash her face?"

Mrs. Lator laughed heartily at this, as did all the other members of her family. Their mirth seemed almost grotesque to the spectators, but this mirth, it was said by Court Clerk Hendrickson, may be the "comic" expression of the family's apprehension for the Lators have suffered very troubles intensely in many ways of late. Since the murder of William, one of the sons, a lad, Jordan, dropped dead in front of his house, and Mrs. Lator, who represents Mrs. Lator, "how long does she ordinarily require to wash her face?"

Mrs. Lator laughed heartily at this, as did all the other members of her family. Their mirth seemed almost grotesque to the spectators, but this mirth, it was said by Court Clerk Hendrickson, may be the "comic" expression of the family's apprehension for the Lators have suffered very troubles intensely in many ways of late. Since the murder of William, one of the sons, a lad, Jordan, dropped dead in front of his house, and Mrs. Lator, who represents Mrs. Lator, "how long does she ordinarily require to wash her face?"

Mrs. Lator laughed heartily at this, as did all the other members of her family. Their mirth seemed almost grotesque to the spectators, but this mirth, it was said by Court Clerk Hendrickson, may be the "comic" expression of the family's apprehension for the Lators have suffered very troubles intensely in many ways of late. Since the murder of William, one of the sons, a lad, Jordan, dropped dead in front of his house, and Mrs. Lator, who represents Mrs. Lator, "how long does she ordinarily require to wash her face?"

Mrs. Lator laughed heartily at this, as did all the other members of her family. Their mirth seemed almost grotesque to the spectators, but this mirth, it was said by Court Clerk Hendrickson, may be the "comic" expression of the family's apprehension for the Lators have suffered very troubles intensely in many ways of late. Since the murder of William, one of the sons, a lad, Jordan, dropped dead in front of his house, and Mrs. Lator, who represents Mrs. Lator, "how long does she ordinarily require to wash her face?"

Mrs. Lator laughed heartily at this, as did all the other members of her family. Their mirth seemed almost grotesque to the spectators, but this mirth, it was said by Court Clerk Hendrickson, may be the "comic" expression of the family's apprehension for the Lators have suffered very troubles intensely in many ways of late. Since the murder of William, one of the sons, a lad, Jordan, dropped dead in front of his house, and Mrs. Lator, who represents Mrs. Lator, "how long does she ordinarily require to wash her face?"

Mrs. Lator laughed heartily at this, as did all the other members of her family. Their mirth seemed almost grotesque to the spectators, but this mirth, it was said by Court Clerk Hendrickson, may be the "comic" expression of the family's apprehension for the Lators have suffered very troubles intensely in many ways of late. Since the murder of William, one of the sons, a lad, Jordan, dropped dead in front of his house, and Mrs. Lator, who represents Mrs. Lator, "how long does she ordinarily require to wash her face?"

Mrs. Lator laughed heartily at this, as did all the other members of her family. Their mirth seemed almost grotesque to the spectators, but this mirth, it was said by Court Clerk Hendrickson, may be the "comic" expression of the family's apprehension for the Lators have suffered very troubles intensely in many ways of late. Since the murder of William, one of the sons, a lad, Jordan, dropped dead in front of his house, and Mrs. Lator, who represents Mrs. Lator, "how long does she ordinarily require to wash her face?"

Mrs. Lator laughed heartily at this, as did all the other members of her family. Their mirth seemed almost grotesque to the spectators, but this mirth, it was said by Court Clerk Hendrickson, may be the "comic" expression of the family's apprehension for the Lators have suffered very troubles intensely in many ways of late. Since the murder of William, one of the sons, a lad, Jordan, dropped dead in front of his house, and Mrs. Lator, who represents Mrs. Lator, "how long does she ordinarily require to wash her face?"

Mrs. Lator laughed heartily at this, as did all the other members of her family. Their mirth seemed almost grotesque to the spectators, but this mirth, it was said by Court Clerk Hendrickson, may be the "comic" expression of the family's apprehension for the Lators have suffered very troubles intensely in many ways of late. Since the murder of William, one of the sons, a lad, Jordan, dropped dead in front of his house, and Mrs. Lator, who represents Mrs. Lator, "how long does she ordinarily require to wash her face?"

Mrs. Lator laughed heartily at this, as did all the other members of her family. Their mirth seemed almost grotesque to the spectators, but this mirth, it was said by Court Clerk Hendrickson, may be the "comic" expression of the family's apprehension for the Lators have suffered very troubles intensely in many ways of late. Since the murder of William, one of the sons, a lad, Jordan, dropped dead in front of his house, and Mrs. Lator, who represents Mrs. Lator, "how long does she ordinarily require to wash her face?"

Mrs. Lator laughed heartily at this, as did all the other members of her family. Their mirth seemed almost grotesque to the spectators, but this mirth, it was said by Court Clerk Hendrickson, may be the "comic" expression of the family's apprehension for the Lators have suffered very troubles intensely in many ways of late. Since the murder of William, one of the sons, a lad, Jordan, dropped dead in front of his house, and Mrs. Lator, who represents Mrs. Lator, "how long does she ordinarily require to wash her face?"

Mrs. Lator laughed heartily at this, as did all the other members of her family. Their mirth seemed almost grotesque to the spectators, but this mirth, it was said by Court Clerk Hendrickson, may be the "comic" expression of the family's apprehension for the Lators have suffered very troubles intensely in many ways of late. Since the murder of William, one of the sons, a lad, Jordan, dropped dead in front of his house, and Mrs. Lator, who represents Mrs. Lator, "how long does she ordinarily require to wash her face?"

LIQUOR, NOT A SANDBAG, MR. WURSTER'S CHANCES.

The Former Is Believed to Have Contributed to Samuel Rogers's Death.

A Suspicious Bruise on His Head Led the Brooklyn Police to Suspect an Assault.

HE WAS CALLED THE BLACK SHEEP.

After the Police Had Looked into His Life's History They Concluded That Love for Drink Had Caused His End.

The police of the Fifth Precinct, Brooklyn, were sorely puzzled yesterday when the sudden and mysterious death of Samuel Rogers, which occurred at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, at his residence, No. 615 Driggs avenue, was reported to them. Rogers was a journeyman plumber, thirty-five years of age, and lived on the first floor of the house over a grocery store, with his wife and two small children.

Dr. Ashley Weber, of North Sixth street, was called in by the family at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon and found Rogers lying on the floor of his bedroom in an unconscious condition. He made an examination of the man, and found a suspicious looking bruise at the base of the skull. He concluded to report the matter to the police of the Fifth Precinct, and subsequently told Captain Short that Rogers had received a blow upon the head with some blunt instrument.

THOUGHT HE'D BEEN SANDBAGGED.

Rogers died half an hour after the physician had been called, and the police were given to understand that the dead man was a victim of sandbaggers, who had attacked him in the hall of his own home. Acting upon this theory, Captain Short detailed Detective Campbell upon the case, and took charge himself.

As a result, the detective ascertained that Rogers had returned home intoxicated at 11 o'clock Wednesday night. His wife declared that he had fallen down the entire flight of stairs after laboring unsteadily to the top. She went down, helped him up and then placed him in bed. He subsequently rolled out of his bed, striking heavily upon his head. His wife made no further attempt to move him, and tucked a pillow under his head and allowed him to remain upon the floor. She thought he was simply drunk, and in her indignation allowed him to stay where he was all day. In the middle of the afternoon, however, she became alarmed and sent for her doctor.

The police learned further that Rogers had returned home in an intoxicated condition with the moving earth and rocks.

Meyer's Hotel, at Strong's Causeway, Flushing, collapsed yesterday afternoon. When the embankment forming the approach to the bridge over the creek fell into the water, the sides of the hotel building, which was built on the Newtown end, spread with the moving earth and rocks.

Low Water Caused an Embankment to
Give Way and Valuable Property
Was Destroyed.

Meyer's Hotel, at Strong's Causeway, Flushing, collapsed yesterday afternoon. When the embankment forming the approach to the bridge over the creek fell into the water, the sides of the hotel building, which was built on the Newtown end, spread with the moving earth and rocks.

Low Water Caused an Embankment to
Give Way and Valuable Property
Was Destroyed.

Meyer's Hotel, at Strong's Causeway, Flushing, collapsed yesterday afternoon. When the embankment forming the approach to the bridge over the creek fell into the water, the sides of the hotel building, which was built on the Newtown end, spread with the moving earth and rocks.

Low Water Caused an Embankment to
Give Way and Valuable Property
Was Destroyed.

Meyer's Hotel, at Strong's Causeway, Flushing, collapsed yesterday afternoon. When the embankment forming the approach to the bridge over the creek fell into the water, the sides of the hotel building, which was built on the Newtown end, spread with the moving earth and rocks.

Low Water Caused an Embankment to
Give Way and Valuable Property
Was Destroyed.

Meyer's Hotel, at Strong's Causeway, Flushing, collapsed yesterday afternoon. When the embankment forming the approach to the bridge over the creek fell into the water, the sides of the hotel building, which was built on the Newtown end, spread with the moving earth and rocks.

Low Water Caused an Embankment to
Give Way and Valuable Property
Was Destroyed.

Meyer's Hotel, at Strong's Causeway, Flushing, collapsed yesterday afternoon. When the embankment forming the approach to the bridge over the creek fell into the water, the sides of the hotel building, which was built on the Newtown end, spread with the moving earth and rocks.

Low Water Caused an Embankment to
Give Way and Valuable Property
Was Destroyed.

Meyer's Hotel, at Strong's Causeway, Flushing, collapsed yesterday afternoon. When the embankment forming the approach to the bridge over the creek fell into the water, the sides of the hotel building, which was built on the Newtown end, spread with the moving earth and rocks.

Low Water Caused an Embankment to
Give Way and Valuable Property
Was Destroyed.

Meyer's Hotel, at Strong's Causeway, Flushing, collapsed yesterday afternoon. When the embankment forming the approach to the bridge over the creek fell into the water, the sides of the hotel building, which was built on the Newtown end, spread with the moving earth and rocks.

Low Water Caused an Embankment to
Give Way and Valuable Property
Was Destroyed.

Meyer's Hotel, at Strong's Causeway, Flushing, collapsed yesterday afternoon. When the embankment forming the approach to the bridge over the creek fell into the water, the sides of the hotel building, which was built on the Newtown end, spread with the moving earth and rocks.

Low Water Caused an Embankment to
Give Way and Valuable Property
Was Destroyed.

Meyer's Hotel, at Strong's Causeway, Flushing, collapsed yesterday afternoon. When the embankment forming the approach to the bridge over the creek fell into the water, the sides of the hotel building, which was built on the Newtown end, spread with the moving earth and rocks.

Low Water Caused an Embankment to
Give Way and Valuable Property
Was Destroyed.

Meyer's Hotel, at Strong's Causeway, Flushing, collapsed yesterday afternoon. When the embankment forming the approach to the bridge over the creek fell into the water, the sides of the hotel building, which was built on the Newtown end, spread with the moving earth and rocks.

Low Water Caused an Embankment to
Give Way and Valuable Property
Was Destroyed.

Meyer's Hotel, at Strong's Causeway, Flushing, collapsed yesterday afternoon. When the embankment forming the approach to the bridge over the creek fell into the water, the sides of the hotel building, which was built on the Newtown end, spread with the moving earth and rocks.

Low Water Caused an Embankment to
Give Way and Valuable Property
Was Destroyed.

for Chief Magistrate of Greater New York is being discussed all over this city. I have heard a number of prominent Brooklynites speak favorably of it, and I have heard New York men of influence talk in the same strain. My opinion that Wurster is the coming Mayor of Greater New York is, therefore, based on sound, substantial grounds. He is raising the government of this city to a very high plane. Under his administration it is being put more and more on a first-class basis. "Nearly all the leaders of the party in this city favor his candidacy for Mayor of Greater New York. I don't think there would be much opposition to it, even in New York, and even if there was this opposition would be overcome. Wurster himself would overcome it by manifestation of his great ability. This he will have ample opportunity to show before annexation becomes an established fact. I think that Mayor Wurster is for annexation, although he has never told me so. Yet everything else being equal and a proper bill being drawn which would protect Brooklyn's interests and secure for it all needed improvements, I believe under such circumstances the Mayor would favor consolidation."

JESSE JOHNSON'S VIEWS.

Jesse Johnson is a Republican lawyer, who was formerly United States District Attorney. He is one of the most prominent men in the city. "I believe that talk about Mr. Wurster's chances for Mayor of Greater New York is premature," he said, "but I think very highly of the Mayor. I am certain that he would make an excellent candidate. If he should seek the office he would receive my hearty support."

MILITIAMEN HELD AT BAY.

They Had Smashed Deery's Hat and He Had a Revolver.

Early yesterday morning as men of the Twenty-third Regiment and their guests, had a revolver.

Early yesterday morning as men of the Twenty-third Regiment and their guests, had a revolver.

Early yesterday morning as men of the Twenty-third Regiment and their guests, had a revolver.

Early yesterday morning as men of the Twenty-third Regiment and their guests, had a revolver.

Early yesterday morning as men of the Twenty-third Regiment and their guests, had a revolver.

Early yesterday morning as men of the Twenty-third Regiment and their guests, had a revolver.

Early yesterday morning as men of the Twenty-third Regiment and their guests, had a revolver.

Early yesterday morning as men of the Twenty-third Regiment and their guests, had a revolver.

Early yesterday morning as men of the Twenty-third Regiment and their guests, had a revolver.

Early yesterday morning as men of the Twenty-third Regiment and their guests, had a revolver.

Early yesterday morning as men of the Twenty-third Regiment and their guests, had a revolver.

Early yesterday morning as men of the Twenty-third Regiment and their guests, had a revolver.

Early yesterday morning as men of the Twenty-third Regiment and their guests, had a revolver.

Early yesterday morning as men of the Twenty-third Regiment and their guests, had a revolver.

Early yesterday morning as men of the Twenty-third Regiment and their guests, had a revolver.

Early yesterday morning as men of the Twenty-third Regiment and their guests, had a revolver.

Early yesterday morning as men of the Twenty-third Regiment and their guests, had a revolver.

Early yesterday morning as men of the Twenty-third Regiment and their guests, had a revolver.

Early yesterday morning as men of the Twenty-third Regiment and their guests, had a revolver.

Early yesterday morning as men of the Twenty-third Regiment and their guests, had a revolver.

Early yesterday morning as men of the Twenty-third Regiment and their guests, had a revolver.

Early yesterday morning as men of the Twenty-third Regiment and their guests, had a revolver.

Early yesterday morning as men of the Twenty-third Regiment and their guests, had a revolver.

Early yesterday morning as men of the Twenty-third Regiment and their guests, had a revolver.

Early yesterday morning as men of the Twenty-third Regiment and their guests, had a revolver.

Early yesterday morning as men of the Twenty-third Regiment and their guests, had a revolver.

Early yesterday morning as men of the Twenty-third Regiment and their guests, had a revolver.

Early yesterday morning as men of the Twenty-third Regiment and their guests, had a revolver.

Early yesterday morning as men of the Twenty-third Regiment and their guests, had a revolver.

Early yesterday morning as men of the Twenty-third Regiment and their guests, had a revolver.

Early yesterday morning as men of the Twenty-third Regiment and their guests, had a revolver.

Early yesterday morning as men of the Twenty-third Regiment and their guests, had a revolver.

REV. DR. GUNNING TELLS HIS STORY.

The Brooklyn Preacher Makes Serious Charges Against His Wife.

He Declares That She Made His Life a Burden and Threatened to Stab Him.

HER FRIENDS WERE TOO OFFICIOUS.

One of Them Insisted on Making the Doctor's Bed—Testimony Given for the Defence in the Divorce Suit.